

Cookies Notice

You should be aware that when you access or use our content, products and services, we may collect information from your devices using 'cookies'.

When visitors enter our website www.epscopy.com, we receive and store information about entry (date, time, IP address, log). This information is kept on our encrypted servers for a period of one (1) month. The purpose for which we collect and preserve this data is for legitimate interest, to maintain and administer the services, resolve disputes, identify and prevent malicious actions, and to ensure the proper functioning of our website for our users. Our cookies also help safeguard your interest - to recognise you as a user, personalise your experience of using the website and keep track of the number of users who visit. Cookies also help various processes on the site, they make it possible to navigate between different pages of the site and transfer of information between the pages, facilitate form filing.